The Arts

Galleries, studios, jewellery and ceramic makers – Halle is a centre for the visual arts. The art scene recruits students, graduates and lecturers from Burg Giebichenstein University. The Moritzburg Foundation is the city’s most important showcase for art enthusiasts.

In the early 1900s galleries were established in Halle that are still important meeting points of the art scene today. These include Fünf Sinne, Zeitkunstgalerie, Hamers & Penz Gallery, Galerie Gross and Villa Kobe. In recent years new galleries, funded by the Saxony-Anhalt Arts Foundation, such as dieschönestadt and raum hellrot provide first and foremost young artists places to exhibit their art. The variety which the art scene has to offer can best be seen by taking a tour on Open Studios Day.

The Moritzburg Foundation, Saxony-Anhalt’s art museum, makes Halle a strong magnet for art enthusiasts. Moritzburg offers themed exhibits of expressionism and painting from the 19th century, along with exhibits by artists from Halle like Albert Ebert and Willi Sitte. The high density of visual artists in Halle is evident in the many public art objects dotted around the city. These include Göbel Fountain on Hallmarkt Square, a wall painting by Hans-Joachim Triebisch in Oleariusstrasse and the more than 20 sculptures by Heinz Beberniss which can be found throughout the city.

Artists can get an excellent foothold by studying at Burg Giebichenstein University of Art and Design Halle. “The Burg” now offers a variety of art programmes including painting, graphics, book art, textile arts, sculpture, ceramics, jewellery and time-based art.

SAXONY-ANHALT ARTS FOUNDATION

The Arts Foundation promotes contemporary art in Saxony-Anhalt by awarding scholarships and funding projects. The foundation's initiative programmes provide the opportunity to respond to regional specialities and innovative developments in art. The foundation's work focuses on helping to make artistic ideas a reality. The many areas of projects that can be funded include painting, graphics, sculpture and architecture, applied art, theatre, dance and film, music, literature, art installations and performance art.

THE ART UNIVERSITY'S ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Every summer Burg Giebichenstein University's annual art exhibit offers the public a comprehensive look at the work created by the Burg's students. Semester projects and final projects from all areas of study are on exhibit. A wide range of added events throughout the city turn Halle into a lively art campus on this weekend.
